The DJSI evaluates corporate sustainability according to economic, environmental, and social criteria based on scores resulting from the SAM Corporate Sustainability Assessment (CSA), a survey conducted by SAM, which is part of US-based S&P Global. Taking account of market capitalization, this index selects companies with outstanding levels of sustainability in their respective industries for the DJSI World.

These indices are recognized as being among the most influential for institutional investors who place emphasis on non-financial information such as ESG information. In the conduct of our business, Sekisui House positions survey items for an index component of the DJSI World as an important objective measure for enhancing the level of our ESG management.
